Another Mother's Treasure Children's Seasonal Consignment is Helping Families Save Money for Back to School

Consignment Sale helps Families Save Money on Children's Items.

A new concept in shopping is helping local families stay within their budgets when it comes to outfitting their children. Families of all economical backgrounds are now able to purchase name brand clothing and baby gear for a fraction of the retail price thanks to Another Mother's Treasure Children's Consignment and Furniture Sale. It will be held at Liberty Square in Teays Valley, just off I-64 Exit 39 on August 5th-7th 9am-7pm.

Another Mother's Treasure has created a consignment event where consignors can sell their children's outgrown items and net 70%-80% of its selling price. This not only results in uncluttered closets, but allows the family extra funds while helping others.

Everyone wins at consignment events like Another Mother's Treasure. In addition to consignors making money while cleaning out their closets and shoppers saving money, the community also wins. Each sale, Another Mother's Treasure, through community outreach programs, sends left over donations from the sale directly into the hands of those who need it. Another Mother's Treasure is currently working with the multiple charities such as Birth to Three, Guardian Project as well as collecting food for Union Mission and pet supplies for various animal shelters in the area. We have also helped individual families in need.

Another Mother's Treasure is the brain child of Amy Anderson & Faria Summers who have children of their own. Amy and Faria have been consignors, shoppers and volunteers in outlying consignment sales for over a decade. They recently launched their own event to serve those in the area. "Being passionate about helping families stay within their budget is why I think these sales are so great" says Amy. We knew we had to bring this event to our town to help all the families we know. We really think this is an amazing idea that will help many people in our region."

Another Mother's Treasure is hosting their Fall/Winter Sale August 5th-7th at Liberty Square in Teays Valley just off I-64 Exit 39.
